

Greetings!

Help us Save the T. Thomas Fortune House National Historic Landmark

We the Committee of The Thomas Fortune House Project would be honored if you would print and post the attached flyer for all to see

The Thomas Fortune House is one of the most historically significant properties in the United States.

It has been abandoned, vandalized, and is currently for sale.

There are only 57 National Historic Landmarks in New Jersey, and only 2,500 in the entire USA.

This is one of only two NHLs in NJ that is significant because of its role in African American history and Journalism.

The Thomas Fortune House Preservation Committee and many other groups are organizing with the assistance of the National Landmarks Alliance and Garden State Legacy.com

We need to raise the attention of the community and raise money for the purchase ASAP.

T. Thomas Fortune was one of the most important Journalists in American History, born a slave in Florida he became educated and one of the most influential journalists of the 19th century.

His home in Red Bank was visited by many scholars, intellectuals, and leaders of his time, including Marcus Garvey and Booker T. Washington.

Our plan is to acquire the property, then stabilize and secure the house so that it can be restored and developed into a cultural center for everyone to enjoy and appreciate.

We have a Facebook page that is packed with information: "Thomas Fortune House, Red Bank, NJ"

Be on the look out for our website.

Cooperating organizations include: the National Trust for Historic Preservation,

National Association of Black Journalists, Preservation NJ,

the NAACP, the National Landmarks Alliance, Garden State Legacy.com,

The T. Thomas Fortune House!

The Thomas Fortune House is one of the most historically significant properties in the United States.

It has been abandoned, vandalized, and is currently for sale. There are only 55 National Historic Landmarks in New Jersey, and only 2,500 in the entire USA. This is the only NHL in NJ (designated June 1976) that is significant because of its role in African American history and Journalism.

The Thomas Fortune House Preservation Committee and many other groups are organizing with the assistance of the National Landmarks Alliance and Garden State Legacy. Our plan is to acquire the property, then stabilize and secure the house so that it can be restored and developed into a museum and cultural center for everyone to enjoy and appreciate.

We need to raise the attention of the community and raise money for the purchase ASAP.
